Louisa C. Mussbom

PIRATE SERENADE

A Celebrated Song

Sung with brilliant success by

JAMES THORN ESQ.R

AT THE

Edinburg Theatre Scotland

Composed expressly for Him

BY

J. THOMPSON.

Published by

D. P. FAULDS & Co

Louisville Ky.

PETERS, FIELD, & Co
Cincinnati.

W. C. PETERS, & Co
Baltimore.

THE PIRATES SERENADE.

Sung by MI. Horncastle. Composed by J. Thomson.

One Hun ___ dred shall serve, the 5d. Verse
VOICE.
CON SPIRITO.
My Boats by the tow'r, My best of the brave, And the Chief of a thou sand shall Bark's in the bay, And both must be gone, ere the kneel to thy slave. And thou shalt reign Queen, and thine Em pire shall last. Till the dawn of the day. The moons in her shroud but to guide thee a far, On the red flag by inch__es is torn from the mast Oh Is__lands there deck of the dar__ings a love light__ed star Then wake la__dy

fz
are on the face of the deep Where the leaves nev er fade and the wake I am wait__ing for thee And this night or nev__er my skies nev__er weep. And there if thou wilt our love bow__ers shall 3 3
Bride thou shalt be. Then wake la__dy wake I am wait__ing for pp
be When we leave for the green__wood our home on the sea thee And this night or nev__er my Bride thou shalt be
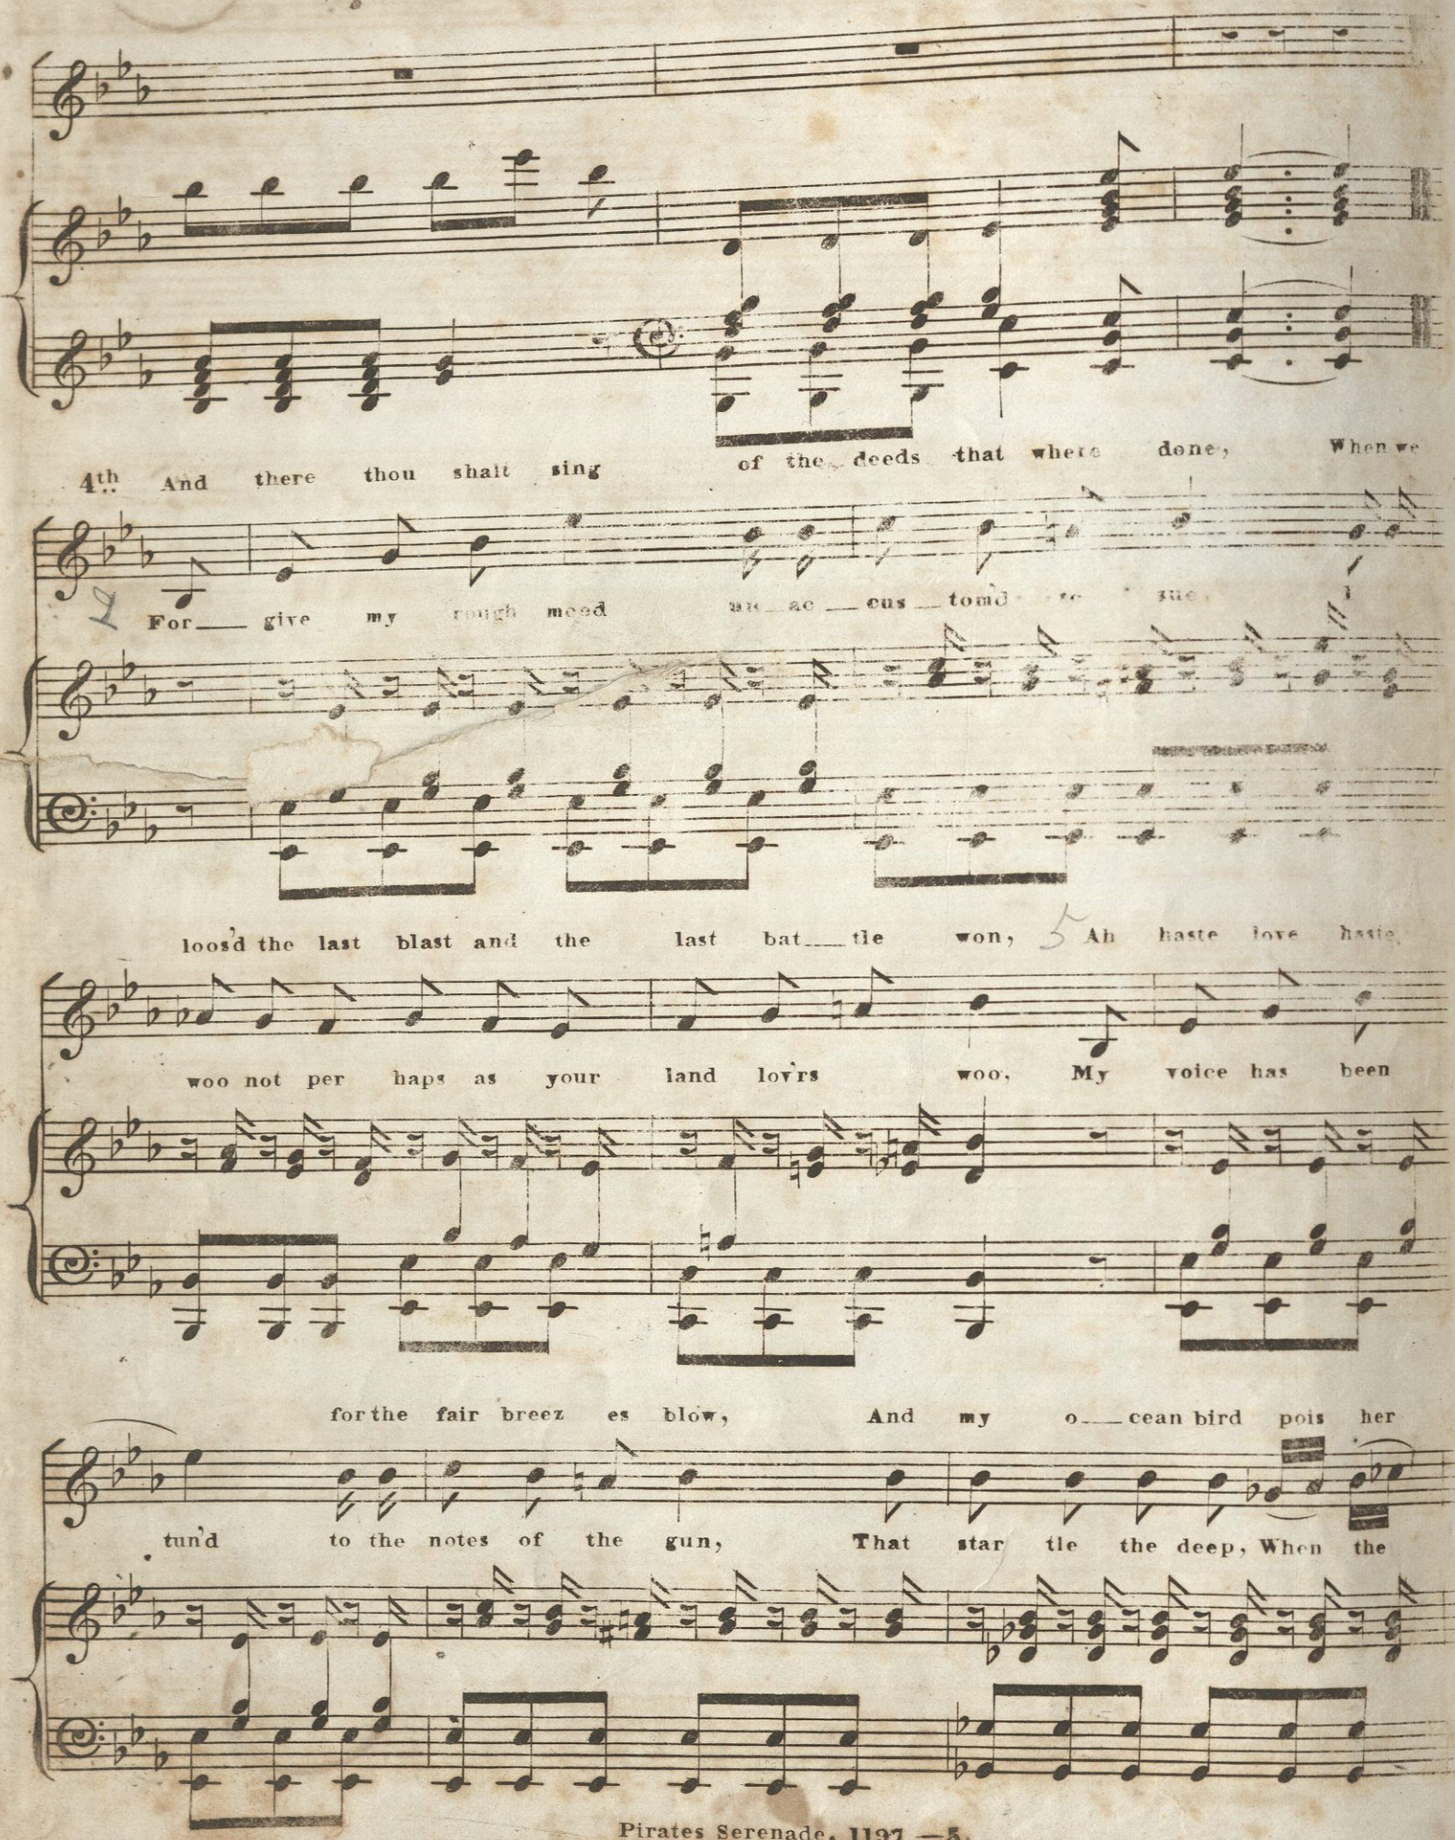
fz



4th And there thou shalt sing of the deeds that where done, When we For give my rough mood ac cus tomd to sue loos'd the last blast and the last bat tle won, Ah haste love haste woo not per haps as your land lov'rs woo, My voice has been for the fair breez es blow, And my o cean bird pois her tun'd to the notes of the gun, That star tle the deep, When the pin_ions of snow Now fast to the lat_tice these silk en cords com_bats be_gun . And hea_vy and hard is the grasp of that twine, They are meet for such feet and such fin gers as thine hand, Whose glove has been ev_er the guard of the band. But sig_nal my mates ho hur_rah for the sea. This night and for think not of these And this mo ment be mine. And the plume of _ ev_er my bride thou shalt be. the proudest shall low'r to thine.

PP
fz